Section 2 - Scope

(2) All University of Canberra (University) staff and affiliates (academic, professional and honorary appointments) undertaking research activities.

Section 3 - Procedure

(3) Identification of cost centre requiring interest accrual:

- a. Research Services as part of their contract review process, will identify if there is a requirement for interest to be accrued and attributed to the project. The contract is then registered as an Interest Accrual Cost Centre (IACC).
- b. Research Services enters the research contract details into the research contract management system, known as Pure, enters a relevant code or marker in the database to identify the cost centre as an IACC, together with the requirements for interest to be accrued and attributed to the project.

(4) Calculation of interest amount:

- a. Research Services provides Finance & Analytics with a listing each quarter from Pure of those research cost centres identified as IACCs, which need to have interest calculated and attributed.
- b. Interest will be calculated based on the average balance of the research cost centre over the quarter, using the 11am Cash Management account interest rate on the last day of the quarter.
- c. Finance & Analytics will process a journal entry at the end of each quarter for the interest accrued for the three months in the quarter.
